1. On 30 August 1950 the Fukien-Kwangtung Border Column mined a highway and blew up a Communist convoy of 6 trucks traveling from Lungyen (117-02, 25-07) to Manching (117-01, 24-35). Four of the trucks contained 40 bags of rice each, one contained bridge repair materials, and the last had bridge repair materials and munitions. After the attack, the guerrillas dumped the bridge repair material into the water, since they could not transport it, and distributed the rice to the local population, after convincing the people that no retribution from Communist forces would follow. Eight Communist drivers were captured and 24 transport personnel killed; one guerrilla was killed and two wounded. The guerrillas captured ten rifles.
2. From 5 to 8 September about 1,000 guerrillas attacked Communist transportation personnel on the highway from Yunhsiao (117-15, 24-01) to Huangkang (116-56, 23-40). Five guerrilla attacks killed approximately 66 Communist troops, and guerrilla losses were 30 killed or wounded. They destroyed seven bridges, felled nearly all the telephone poles, and destroyed all telephone and electric wires.
3. On 2 September, about 150 guerrillas entered Pingnan (119-07, 27-05), but encountered resistance there from the city self-defense group. In the engagement, 59 Communists were killed and 17 guerrillas killed or wounded. The guerrillas captured 15 prisoners as well as some rifles and ammunition.
